

Social media use exceeding three hours per day correlates with elevated anxiety in adolescents.

A cohort of 312 high-school students was surveyed.

Sleep deprivation mediates the relationship.

The study found significant correlations between social media usage and mental health outcomes.

Adolescents who spent more than three hours daily on social platforms showed higher anxiety levels.